The event organised by Dr. Shourya Tandon, Professor, as Organising Chairman, with his fellow colleagues was attended by around 100 on campus post graduate students and faculty members actively.

The guest speaker highlighted the role of biostatistics and research methodology and shared highly qualitative research work being conducted by his team at Kent State and he also displayed how the concept has evolved over time. The queries of the audience were well discussed and left the speaker also encouraged to visit us again.

With the support of Indian Association of Public Health Dentistry, even 15-20 postgraduates & faculty members from Public Health Dentistry departments in National Capital Region were in attendance.

The department of Public Health Dentistry in its important roles in key areas like basic clinical care at out-reach locations & academic excellence in the areas of Research and other Dental Public Health concepts is always motivated to play its role.
